PICTURE THIS...

Some say a picture is worth a thousand words, but I say it's worth so much more than that. Photographs serve to remind us of what we've done and where we've been. They enable us to revisit all the great moments of our past. Piedmont, whether our past, present, or future, is full of memories and potential picture-worthy experiences. So as you look back over the year, remember, relive, imagine, and Picture This...

--Katie Justice, Editor

CAUGHT ON FILM:
Student Life at Piedmont

FRESHMAN ORIENTATION

Piedmont welcomes the Freshman Class of 2014 through the grand tradition of Freshman Orientation. The four-day event contains all sorts of fun-filled activities and classes to acclimate students to college life. Some of the highlights include moving into the dorms, a social, and a picnic sponsored by Piedmont alumni.

Y-CAMP ROPES COURSE

One of the most memorable parts of Freshman Orientation takes place at the Y-Camp Ropes Course. Students participate in a variety of activities that encourages team building and helps the freshmen get to know each other. Some of the crazy games and fun challenges include such things as a tricky blindfolded maze, swinging by ropes across “lava” to turn in homework, and building bridges to cross the “flooded campus”.

Convocation

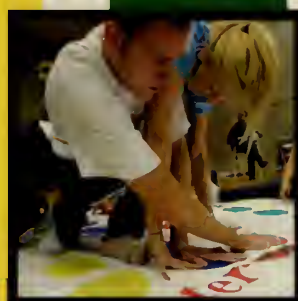

The Butterfly Effect

The Quality Enhancement Program focuses on inspiring critical thinking and student learning at Piedmont. The 2010-2011 theme is the Butterfly Effect. This term comes from Edward Lorenz's research in meteorology that refers to the huge effects that can come from the tiniest actions. QEP is encouraging community service among Piedmont students, faculty, and staff by aiming to meet a goal of 10,000 community service hours.

Picturing PC 2011

Amanda Posey and Abby Sutton dip their shirts in the different color dyes to make a cool tie-dye design.

Marquanne Couch, Danielle Baker, and Zach Thomaswick bring breast cancer awareness to Piedmont.

Courtney Benson smiles while pulling out guts so she can carve her pumpkin.

Cameron Pruitt and Mandy Christian help friends carve pumpkins.

At the Piedmont Cheerleaders' table, Danielle Morgan, Torey Poole and Alexandra Mahoney pose with their pumpkins.

Dr. Ellen Briggs is going for a dip after a festival attendee hit the target at the dunking booth.

Sean McGuire pushes his makeshift float in the Christmas parade.

The passing of the flame during the candle light service

Chartwells displays some season spirit with a display in the Christmas parade.

The Piedmont Cheerleaders let Santa in on their Christmas wishes.

It looks like Santa got his christmas wish.

It's just not Christmas time without Christmas carols.

Santa and his helpers look a little familiar thanks to Drew Davis, Mark Maynard, and Kel Lee Cutrell.

Thank You President Cleere 2011

This timeline depicts only a few of the monumental changes that have been completed in the 15 school years President Ray Cleere has dedicated to Piedmont College. Thanks to his commitment to improvement, the college has grown vastly in enrollment, land area, and even courses offered. It is a well accepted fact that Piedmont would not be the nationally recognized institution that it is today without President Cleere.

2007

Swanson Center for Performing Arts and Communication opened.

The Study Abroad Program in Nottingham begins.

2005

Loudermilk Baseball Stadium constructed.

2009

Arrendale Ampitheater constructed

2010

New Bedford and Plymouth Residence Halls are completed.
